Report of the Committee on Relations with the Host Country

John R. Arbogast, Counselor for Legal Affairs

November 13, 2013

Mr. Chairman,

The United States, as always, is proud to serve the United Nations and the Permanent and Observer States of the United Nations. The United States values the country's record in this respect, and we are grateful to those delegations whose remarks have positively recognized the host country's efforts. Among with the United States, the United Nations and the world's largest and most diverse community of nations, the United States has fulfilled the obligations of the United Nations Charter, and we are committed to continue to do so in the future.

We believe that the Committee on Relations with the Host Country is a valuable forum in which to discuss relevant issues relating to the United Nations. The United States is a member of the diplomatic community in New York City, one of the largest, most diverse and most vibrant cities in the world. The Committee's meetings provide an opportunity for all members to assess the United Nations' relationship with the host country and to discuss them.

The host country values the cooperation and the contributions of all members of the Committee in its work. The United States is a member of the United Nations Secretariat in this regard. We also appreciate the interest and participation of all members of the Committee. The ability of delegations that are not members of the Committee to participate in its meetings has increased significantly in recent years. The United States is a representative of the UN diplomatic community. The United States is a member of the United Nations Security Council and a permanent member of the General Assembly. The United States is committed to the safety and security of the United Nations and its staff. The United States is committed to the banking services of the United Nations.

Mr. Chairman,

The United States would like to express our appreciation to the Chairman of the Committee on Relations with the Host Country, Ambassador Henry Kissinger. We also wish to thank the United Nations, the United States, and the United States Mission to the United Nations.
